

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

OptionGenius.com Reports Double Digit Monthly Returns Again.

OptionGenius.com reports an 11.71% ROI for May. This trumps the 5.59% gain of the S&P 500 for the same period. In this time of market uncertainty, it is uncommon to see such above average gains being reported month after month.

Houston, Texas, June 15, 2009 – OptionGenius.com, a stock option selling advisory service, reported monthly gains for May 2009 of 11.71%. This is after an 11.87% monthly gain in April.

Founded by Allan Sama, OptionGenius.com lets anyone see Sama's actual option trades and adjustments through real-time updates; by making the same trades themselves, OptionGenius.com members can enjoy the average 8% to 10% monthly returns Sama consistently achieves. Even with the Dow down 34% in 2008, Sama and his members made 102.14% for the year.

By limiting the number of trades to only those with a 75% or higher probability of success, OptionGenius.com (<http://www.optiongenius.com>) is far outpacing the stock market in 2009 by more than 250% so far.

The trades for May were in

- SPX - the S&P 500 Index
- RUT - the Russell 2000 Index
- AAPL - Apple Computer
- WMT – Wal-Mart

While Sama continues to make above average gains, he does not promise any home runs. In fact, while other advisory services proclaim trades that net 100-1000%, Sama aims for 10% on each trade.

"As an option seller, I look for base hits. I want a couple singles and maybe a double each month. I use strategies that bring me consistent income month after month, no matter what the market is doing. It could be up, down, or sideways and I can still profit" says Sama.
